

MAJ BRIAN C. SMEDICK, DSc, MPAS, APA-C; Austere Resuscitative Surgical Team, Special Operations Medical Detachment. Major Smedick is a graduate of the Interservice Physician Assistant Program and the Army-Baylor Surgery and Critical Care Fellowship. He has over 16 years of military service ten of which include operational medical experience. MAJ Smedick has worked with austere medicine and prolonged casualty care groups for the last 6 years developing training, clinical practice guidelines, and evaluating medical performance in combat. MAJ Smedick has deployed multiple times to the middle east and participated in international medical training events. His previous assignments include the 82nd Airborne Division (multiple units), the 82nd Aviation regiment, and 3rd Special Forces Group. Currently he is stationed in Charlotte, NC working in trauma surgery and critical care as part of a MIL-CIV partnership with his detachment. He lives with his wife Courtney and their two daughters, Mallory and Isla.