

Sherwood Yao co-founded Atom Bioworks Inc (RTP, NC), a VC backed biotech with Chemistry Prof Dr.Xing Wang (University of Illinois), to commercialize the DNA Star - a DNA rational design platform technology and build early detection and treatment of infectious diseases and cancer based on DNA Star platform. He has been actively involved in the Healthcare startups for the last 5 years. Most recently, Sherwood co-founded and exited HelloAEye, a medical device company that tackles myopia control problems leveraging IoT sensors and AI software. Prior to that, Sherwood was a senior product manager at IBM heading its effort of working with Healthcare startups using IBM Cloud/Watson platform. Sherwood holds an MBA from Fuqua School of Business at Duke University, a Master in Computer Science from University of Maryland College Park, a B.Engineering in Engineering Physics from Tsinghua University.